Location

A 150 year old plantation house, situated on a small hilltop in a valley above the River Rungeet and close to Darjeeling. It is in the Himalayas at an altitude of 3700m (highest point on the estate) and is overlooked by Mount Kanchenjunga. Surrounded by 1000 acres of private forest and the working tea estate. The main bungalow has a wonderful, long verandah with comfortable chairs running across the front of it. One may also eat out on the verandah. Inside is a very cosy, 'English-style' sitting room and dining room where everyone eats together. There is also a small pavilion down in the garden which is a lovely place for lunch, tea or dinner. A perfect base for visiting Darjeeling and a chance to actually stay on a working tea estate which you cannot do anywhere else in India.

Accommodation

With 4 rooms in the 'Burra Bungalow' (3 with adjoining single rooms) and 4 rooms in the stunning new Waterlily Bungalow, it is the perfect place to take in its entirety and to be based at for visiting Darjeeling or to simply enjoy the magnificent views

Burra Bungalow (4 bedrooms):

The Kanchenjunga Suite has a King and a Queensize bed and a single bed in an adjoining 'dressing' room. Beautifully decorated in pale blue and white and with a whole wall of windows looking across the mountains to Kanchenjunga.

The Planter's Suite has a Kingsize fourposter bed and a single bed in an adjoining 'dressing' room. This leads through to a small, octagonal sitting room which, in turn leads out into the garden. The room is decorated in warm beiges, browns and cream. It also has its own fireplace.

The Rose Suite has 2 beds in the main bedroom, along with a further single bed in an adjoining dressing room. There is also a very pretty sitting room where a fourth bed could be put. The whole suite is decorated in pale greens, pinks and rose fabrics and is very light and airy.

The Butterfly Room is a pretty room, decorated in rich pastel colour and has one double bed. The bedroom leads through to a small sitting room which leads out into the garden. The Butterfly room has its own fireplace as well.

The rooms are charmingly decorated with individual themes. They are light and airy with timbered ceilings. Each has a private entrance / sit out, opening onto the verandah or garden. They are all on ground level and have overhead fans (air-conditioning is not necessary.) Each bathroom is large and incredibly well equipped and all boast old fashioned bath tubs with handheld showers. The views from each room are of the tea fields, forests, or mountains. The bungalow can be hired in its entirety for a group of friends. The rooms in the Burra Bungalow are all on ground level and are suitable for wheelchair access.

Waterlily Bungalow

The four new rooms in this bungalow are quite stunning. 2 are twin bedded and 2 are double beds. Two are on the upper floor and two below. Each opens onto an inner sitting room / public area. They are stunningly but differently and very prettily decorated. They are huge, have incredible mountain views and are very private and exceedingly comfortable – outrageously comfortable beds. Fabulous bathrooms, mass of water, large tubs and separate showers and all very light and airy and decorated in true planters style, they are places to spend time in. Each room has a lovely, large bay window with plenty of comfortable sitting area and which can be used as an extra bed.

All rooms have hair dryers, electric blankets, and hot water bottles are provided during periods of cold weather. All rooms have attached bathrooms and hot water is provided by geysers.

Glenburn Lodge (2 bedrooms):

Guests staying at the Burra Bungalow can also use Glenburn Lodge during the day or for overnight stays, as this charming log cabin is not rented out independently. Many guests choose to spend one night down here and this is included in the package.

These bedrooms are simple but furnished with taste and style and each has twin beds and good, attached bathrooms with showers and hot water. A verandah leads out from the inner sitting area and it's a wonderfully peaceful place to sit and watch the river and birds from. A real escape into nature with no disturbances and yet it is fully staffed.

Dining

Table d'hote menus are offered for all meals. Breakfast and lunch are served either in the bright and sunny morning room at one end of the front verandah or in the garden or at the garden pavilion. Dinner is usually served as a sit-down, candlelit meal in the dining room, along with your hosts and any other guests in residence. Private dining can be arranged. Continental, Oriental and Indian cuisine is served. Room service is available. The delicious, fresh vegetables are all grown on the estate. Some of the best food to be had in India.

Picnics and barbeques can be arranged on request.

All meals, soft drinks, beer, mineral water, tea and coffee are included in the daily room rate.

Meal Times

No set meal times and guests tend to eat lunch and dinner together at a mutually convenient time.

Children

Ideal for families who want to escape to a retreat in the mountains but with plenty to do. Children are welcome but, being a small and peaceful place, guests are asked to be aware that noise carries here! Children may be accommodated in their parents' bedroom. There is a baby-sitting service available.
